~Quote of the Week~

Summer is just days away! But, school is still in session. This is the last week and one of the most important in the school year.

Semester exams!

Parents, please help your children study for their semester exams. Be sure they are getting enough rest at night and a good breakfast.

Encouraging words before they leave for school would be wonderful self esteem and confidence boosters!

Last words from Mrs. Barclay, your Parent Educator...

Beloved parents,

I want to thank all of you that came up to the school to support your children throughout the school year. Thank you to those who volunteered. Thank you to those who came to my parent classes and workshops. Thank you to my faithful PAC parents as well. I appreciate all of you. I look forward to seeing all of you next year and I cannot wait to be of assistance to you all. For those parents with students moving on to high school, please remember they need you just as much now as they did on their first day of Kindergarten. Stay involved whether they like it or not, because when they are older and they are established, successful, and happy adults they will look back and remember you being involved, guiding, and pushing them to always give 100% and be their best. I wish you all a safe and happy summer!

*Thinking of all of you always,
Mrs. Barclay
Parent Educator*
