High school probably feels very different from middle school. Following these six tips will help you have a better freshman year.

1. GO TO SCHOOL News flash-Attendance in high school counts. And for three very good reasons:

You'll get better grades. You can't learn if you're not there.

- Missing classes in high school may cause you to lose credits, which you need to graduate on time.
- A good attendance record shows future employers that you are dependable.
- GET ORGANIZED The first step toward organization is having the right equipment. It doesn't have to be fancy or high tech. A different color folder (neatly labeled) for each class and a calendar or planner should do it. Keep your notes, tests, quizzes and homework in the folder for each class so you can refer back to them as needed.
- 3. DO YOUR HOMEWORK Some students blow off homework by either not doing it at all or not putting enough effort into it. Blow if off and your grades will suffer. High school teachers expect you to spend more time on homework.
- 4. DON'T WAIT TO GET HELP If you're worned about your grades or test scores, ask for help right away. Whether you are struggling with homework or aren't doing well on quizzes, ask your teacher or school counselor for specific ways to improve. Speak up if you think you're falling behind, and be sure to take advantage of extra help sessions, resource time, or tutoring.
- 5. WORK HARD Make it a personal goal to do more than just get by. Colleges advise students to take the most challenging classes they can which means it's more important to stretch yourself than to take easier classes. Make a commitment to complete the Core 40 with Academic Honors or Core 40 with Technical Honors diploma. Students who go the extra mile have more job opportunities and more college choices.
- 6. KNOW HOW TO GO TO COLLEGE It's time to focus even more on planning for college and careers. Remember, graduation will be here before you know it. Take these 4 steps to make sure you have the opportunity to go to college and get the future you want:
 - Push Yourself
 - Find the Right Fit
 - Put Your Hands on Some Cash
 - Ask for Help

Parenting Tips for High School Freshman

- Help Your Child Get Organized. Make sure your child has the necessary classroom materials such as a backpack, pens, pencils, paper, binders, calculator, etc.
 One of the most important items that will help your child get organized is an agenda.
 These can be purchased at the school for $6.00 while supplies last, or you could purchase one at most retail stores.
- 2. Establish Daily Routines. This tip is easier said than done, but establishing daily routines such as meals, homework time, bedtime, etc. help students with time management. This can be challenging when your child is involved in extracurricular activities, so there are times when routines must be altered.
- 3. Encourage Your Child to Be a Self-Advocate. If your child has a question about something covered in class, hold your child accountable for asking. It's ok to be involved and communicate with teachers, but the more your child learns to be a self-advocate, the better prepared your child will be for college.
- 4. Check Your Child's Grades Weekly & Give Feedback. If you have not already set up an account with Parent Connection, the form can be found on the school's website. Return the form to the front office so that an account can be set up. Give your child feedback on his or her progress and use this information to set goals for each grading period.
- 5. Encourage Your Child to Get Involved in at Least One Extracurricular Activity or Club. Involvement in school activities enables students to develop a sense of school pride and ownership. Friendships are established, and students feel a sense of community by getting involved.
- 6. Discuss Career Options with Your Child. Many high school freshmen have no idea what they want to do after graduation. Observe your child's strengths and weaknesses and talk about the possibilities. Explore the elective focus areas offered at your child's high school and talk to the school counselor about these opportunities.
- 7. Know That There is Always Homework to Do. If your child does not appear to have anything to do at homework time, check out the teacher sharepoint pages for dates on projects, tests, homework, etc. If nothing else, your child can read during homework time. When checking grades, look to see whether or not your child is turning in his or her homework.
- 8. Make Sure Your Child Arrives On Time Each Day. Minutes missed in class can add up to days. Not only does your child miss out on information covered in class, but the rest of the class is interrupted when your child enters the classroom late.
- 9. Post a Copy of the School Calendar in Your Home or Office. Knowing essential dates such as grading periods, holidays, testing, etc. are important in planning.
- 10. Know What Your Kids are Doing and the Types of Friends They Associate With. Teenagers can often get caught up in disputes that interfere with their learning. Know who your children are spending time with and get to know their families. Peer groups can make or break kids. Encourage your kids to avoid drama that would interrupt their success. Sometimes being "nosy" is good for your child. They will thank you for it one day.

Elkins High School - CCR Guide for Naviance & SAT/ACT Practice Narietha D. Carter-McClain

College&Career Resource Center

Naviance is a college and success planning tool designed to help high school students plan their college search, communicate with their guidance counselors, and stay on top of tasks and assignments related to their learning plan and college application process.
