MIDDLE SCHOOL ELA RESOURCES/ACTIVITIES (NO SCREEN TIME OR TECHNOLOGY)
Description	Course
Keep a log of the number of pages or minutes the family reads each week. Work together to determine how much time is reasonable to spend during a week reading. Set goals to increase the number and celebrate when you do. Take into account work responsibilities, summer activities, and family events. All family members can contribute to the total, whether they are reading picture books, blog posts, novels, trade manuals, etc. This helps increase the volume of reading as well as stamina.	ELA 6-8 On-level and PreAP MS Literacy
Read with, to, and alongside your children. Your children will value reading more if they see that the adults in their lives value reading. Talk to your children about what you are reading. Share your reading life with your children, no matter your interests. It might even inspire them to look at new topics.	ELA 6-8 On-level and PreAP MS Literacy
Talk to your kids about what they are reading. Reading is a social activity. Whether a person loves or hates a book, they are always eager to talk about it. Give your children this opportunity.	ELA 6-8 On-level and PreAP MS Literacy

“BHH Reading” is a protocol developed by noted literacy experts Kylene Beers and Robert Probst in their book Disrupting Thinking (2017). As students and other family members read, you can use these questions to talk about your texts. As you read, think about what is.... <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ In the Book: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ What’s this about? ○ Who’s telling the story? ○ What does the author want me to know? ▪ In your Head: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ What surprised me? ○ What does the author think I already know? ○ What changed, challenged, or confirmed my thinking? ○ What did I notice? ▪ In your Heart: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ What did I learn about me? ○ How will this help me to be better?
Write sentence stems on strips of paper or popsicle sticks. Draw one and fill in the blank to talk about a book. Some sentence stems include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • That reminds me of... • I don’t understand... • Why... • It confused me when... • I got it when... • I wonder... • This is good because... • I agree/disagree... • I can relate to... • This makes me think of... • I have connection to... • I got stuck. . . • I figured out. . . • I got confused when. . . so... • I didn’t expect. . . • I first thought. . . but now I realize. . . • What puzzled me the most was. . . • I was really surprised when... • I will understand this better if I . . . • I think tomorrow I would like to try. . . 	ELA 6-8 On-level and PreAP MS Literacy

Please work with your child to select the right text for them. The resources provided here are options from reliable sources, but you have the final word in what your child reads.	ELA 6-8 On-level and PreAP MS Literacy
To grow vocabulary... <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • When your child asks what a word means, help them look it up in a traditional dictionary or a web-based one. Help them use clues in the text to find the best definition, then talk through how the definition helps them understand what they are reading. • Keep a family word wall. As you and your child come across new words in text, write them on a piece of paper and put them up on the refrigerator, the bathroom mirror, the back of a door—any blank space. Watch for those words in other texts or listen for them on television. 	ELA 6-8 On-level and PreAP MS Literacy
To grow your writers... <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Have students keep a journal, whether on paper or in a digital format (Word or Sway). They can write about daily experiences or respond to texts they have read. • Give them old fashioned paper and pen to write and mail a real letter to a family member, teacher, or friend. • Students have access to Office 365 email and can communicate with their peers. This provides an outlet for students who may feel secluded at this time. • Students can create their own comics to retell or create comic adventures. • Use a prompt to jumpstart your writers: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ Want to add practice for timed writing? Pick an old STAAR Writing Prompt at TEA Star Resources page. https://tea.texas.gov/student-assessment/testing/staar/staar-resources. Set a timer for one hour to plan/organize and write a response. ○ These sites also have creative writing prompts: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ Literacy and Numeracy Blog: https://wabisabilearning.com/blogs/literacy-numeracy/creative-writing-prompts ○ 100 Days of Summer Writing: https://movingwriters.org/100-days-of-summer-writing/g • Have your writer respond to a visual image. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ Find a picture on your camera or in old photo album and write a story for it, create the dialogue between people in the picture, or describe the setting. Write what happened in the moment before the picture or what will happen in the moment after. ○ Find pictures from the newspaper and write about them. ○ Visual Prompts provides images and prompts to write about. They can be sorted by genre, subject, or grade level. Find them at Visual Prompts Weebly: http://visualprompts.weebly.com/. • Confer with your child about their writing. Some tips: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ Focus on what your child can do rather than on errors. 	ELA 6-8 On-level and PreAP MS Writing Lab

<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ Follow a protocol—have the child read their writing aloud to you while you simply listen. Have them read it again, and this time, take notes on things you here. You might listen for things that stand out to you like vivid images or strong word choice, details you want to know more about, or emotions the writing creates for you. You can ask you writer, “What are you working on that I can listen for?” or “What would you like me to give you feedback on?” ○ Be careful about pointing out grammar mistakes each time you read or listen to your child’s writing. If you see a pattern of grammatical mistakes, or just want to refresh your memory about a grammar rule, check out these resources: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ Purdue Online Writing Lab: https://owl.purdue.edu/owl/purdue_owl.html ○ Grammar Book: https://www.grammarbook.com/english_rules.asp ○ Daily Writing Tips: https://www.dailywritingtips.com/english-grammar-101-all-you-need-to-know/
To grow your thinkers... <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ● When kids have questions about something, help them look it up online. Guide them through analyzing the source. Let them share what they learn with other family members: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ● 3-2-1 Report: List 3 things you will remember the most, 2 things you might still be wondering about, and 1 thing you learned.
