

CELEBRATING gifted!

March 2020

From the Director

Spring Greetings!

Spring brings the opportunity for new growth not only in our yards and gardens, but also in ourselves. Spring cleaning does not have to just mean dusting furniture - it can also mean taking a moment to reflect on who we are and what new growth we want to see in ourselves.

I challenge our gifted community to do a little bit of each type of spring cleaning this month!

Dr. Laurie Westphal

Mr. Joseph Bernhart from the GT Academy was recognized by the Board on February 24 for receiving the Innovation in Giftedness Award from TAGT!

Congratulations, Mr. Bernhart, and thank you for all you do for gifted learners!

Feeding the Gifted Soul: Underachievement

Gifted students are a diverse minority group with high intelligence and talent whose needs are often unrecognized and unmet. It is believed that this group of students, from a range of backgrounds, socioeconomic statuses and abilities, may experience a range of social-emotional difficulties, including peer exclusion, isolation, stress, anxiety, depression and destructive perfectionism. Literature also reveals that gifted and talented students are underachieving at school.
